1. Envision your pose and draw three corresponding circles.

2. Block in head, neck, throatlatch. Square the chest and round the belly.

3. Add ears. The knees are rounded at first, but become squares. The heel is square.

4. The hooves are triangles. The fetlock grows thicker than the leg bone.

4. Add mane, tail, and touches of realism.

The chin has a bump of flesh.

Align the ears with a circle.

3 circles can command any pose.

Eyes are on the side of the head.

A huge vein runs under the jaw.

Hoof shape.

Rough muscle groups to keep in mind.

There are many different body types and breeds, but the 3 circle concept still stands.

Step 1: Draw the head.

Step 2: Next, draw the face.

Step 3: Then, draw the body.

Step 4: Draw the tail.

Step 5: Draw the hind legs.

Step 6: Draw the front legs.
